Message from Mary

229: Discernment

There are many lessons to be learned in each lifetime, my dear ones, and the lesson of discernment is one that requires constant honing. If you had learned all your lessons, chances are good that you would no longer be part of the physical world – so cherish your lessons.

No matter the guise of the teacher, no matter the mantle they wear, if their words do not resonate within you as truth do not be ashamed to turn aside. Many masters bring forth great truth, as do many children of Light. Yet there are just as many masters who behave like children as there are children who do not own their Light.

Take what you may from each – take what resonates as truth – and leave the dross for it will not serve you to be burdened with the debris of others. Learn to be more discerning, learn to look deeper and to heed the early warning signs and you will spare yourself much grief.

Remember that the truth resonates and harmonizes, an untruth startles and disorients, and they can both come through the same delivery system, through the same voice.

Develop your discernment, my children, and be better off for it.

Blessings,

Mother Mary

I will post the accomplishments on the website as folks log them in, no names, just a list of services performed. Call me for further information.
